

LUNCHTIME STORIES

Summer Festival
of Stories and Song

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

Sal Tonge is a storyteller and musician who lives in Stiperstones. She celebrates the music of language and loves to run and daydream round the Devil's Chair. Sal is a collector of oral bric a brac and a twaddle monger; sharing stories, songs and taradiddles to delight the ear and bring people together.

Award-winning author and storyteller, Amy Douglas tells traditional tales from Shropshire and Scotland. Set your foot to the road now the yellow is on the broom. Rise with the dawn, wash your face in the dew, stride out into adventure and we'll meet under the full moon to dance.

Helen East and Rick Wilson have been ever-present throughout the renaissance of storytelling in England for the past 40 years. They tell traditional stories drawn from first hand experience of places they have worked in and visited worldwide.

Sat 10th July, 1 - 2.30pm
